

This is a detailed technical exploded view diagram of a complex industrial machine, likely a centrifugal pump or compressor. The diagram illustrates the assembly of various components, including a central motor or drive unit, a large cylindrical housing, an impeller or rotor assembly, and a complex network of piping and structural supports. The components are shown in their relative positions, with dashed lines indicating the assembly path. The drawing is a black and white line art, typical of engineering specifications.

[illegible]